Free Zones Demand Tax Exemption until EC Membership

Wishing to revive the free zones which lost blood with the issuance of Encouragement Law in 2004, the government initiated the operations to extend the tax exemption was granted to the establishments until Turkey's full EC membership. Income and institutional tax exemption for non-manufacturing companies which were granted operation licenses in the free zones after the date of 6 February 2004 was discontinued with the law numbered 5084. While the income accrued from these zones were exempted from income and institutional tax for the establishments that were granted licenses before February the 6th limited to their license periods, the exemption brought on personnel wages employed in these zones was limited to the date of 31.12.2008. The manufacturers on the other hand will take advantage of the exemption until the full EC membership. Thus the free zones were no longer attractive with the implementation of the law and the government initiated the extension procedures for the exemption was granted to the establishments operating in the free zones until the full membership in the EC. The sector representatives stressed that the law should be implemented before waiting for 2008 to come. Moreover, following the necessary changes the fee which the companies pay, corresponding to 0.5 % of the value of the goods they bring in or out of the region will be suspended, except for the manufacturers that became operational after the date of 6 February 2004.

Politics

Gül's Visit to USA

Gül received the "One will suffer the consequences of engaging in operations across the border" message during his USA visit. USA's Foreign Affairs Vice Minister Dan Fried who is responsible for Europe and Eurasia said that Turkey should be carefully considering the responsibility of the consequences of an operation across the border. Answering a question about the bill presented to the USA Representatives Council regarding the assumed Armenian genocide, Fried said, "We do not support this bill and doing everything we can do to prevent its issuance." Fried also added that Turkey should research its own history not because of foreign pressures, but based on its progress and democratic values. Fried expressed that they continued their endeavors to prevent the issuance of the bill presented to Representatives Council.

Ismail Cem Passed Away

Former minister of Foreign Affairs Ismail Cem who had left his mark on a certain period of Turkey's foreign policy passed away at the end of January. Loosing the fight against lung cancer he struggled for a while, Cem was being treated since December the 26th in Istanbul Medical Operations Hospital.

Income Distribution:

Despite the increased income level per person, the unevenness of income distribution continues to be a significant problem in Turkish economy. According to the questionnaire of TÜLK (state statistics institute) accomplished in 720 homes in 2005, the wealthy people in the country earn 21 times more than the poor in the average of daily income per person. The annual income of the poorest 5 % of the inhabitants is 1.999 million YTL (approximately € 1.175 Million), whereas the average daily income is approximately 1.6 YTL (nearly € 0.94). The annual income of the wealthiest 5 % of the inhabitants is 46.958 million YTL (approximately 27.662 million Euros), whereas the average daily income is 34.9 YTL (approximately € 20.53). The wealthiest part earns as much as 7.35 times more than the poorest part if the income distribution of the year 2005 is regarded as a part of 20 %. (See the table) Accordingly, 18 million people had an income below the poverty line of 4 USD. Notwithstanding, the improvement of income distribution is a pleasing development.
